

I am writing in support of independent ISP's like the one which provides my internet service. I am concerned that if BellSouth's petition asking the FCC to stop regulating broadband service is granted that the independent local business I prefer to use will no longer be able to provide my ISP services at a competitive rate. Such regulations that now exist and which are being challenged help support competitive local businesses and prevent monopolies from being established. I support maintaining regulatory review of the broadband pricing to independent ISPs by large phone companies. Thank you for your attention to my comments.
